WELCOME!

Summer means big family films, and the biggest this year are likely to be Inside Out 2 and Despicable Me 4. While there doesn't seem to be an equivalent to last year's Barbenheimer excitement - although Ryan Gosling is still Kenough in The Fall Guy - that means we have space for a wide mix of new titles, as well as classic releases ranging from Italian neorealism to Star Trek. And those of you who caught our selection of Michael Powell and Emeric Pressburger films over the autumn and winter should make sure to see Made in England, a new documentary about the duo presented by their long-time admirer Martin Scorsese.

While the information in this brochure is correct at the time of going to print, late changes may sometimes occur for various reasons - and there will be plenty more events that have yet to be confirmed.

To keep up to date, you can join our weekly email list - sign up on our website, or email admin@wottoncinema.com and ask to join. You can also follow us on social media - we're @wottoncinema on facebook, twitter/X, instagram, threads and tiktok.

THAT THEY MAY FACE

THE RISING SUN 15

Capturing a year in the life of a rural community in late 1970s Ireland, this is a beautifully realised adaptation of the last novel by John McGahern. Joe (Barry Ward) and Kate (Anna Bederke) have returned from London to live and work in a small, close-knit community in rural Ireland, close to where Joe grew up. Now embedded in a remote lakeside setting, the drama of a year in their lives and those of their neighbours unfolds through the rituals of work, play and the passing seasons. A delicate, meditative exploration of ritual, community bonds, and the question of how best to live.

THE FALL GUY 12A

Billy Connolly is at the peak of his powers in this rediscovered and newly restored film. Featuring iconic stand-up material alongside behind-the-scenes glimpses, this previously elusive milestone of British comedy is now restored, reaffirming the genius that has endeared Connolly to generations.

ROME, OPEN CITY 12A

Sunday 2 June 7.30pm

Monday 3 June 2pm

A landmark of Italian neorealism approaching its 80th anniversary, Roberto Rossellini's portrait of life under Nazi occupation remains remarkable for its immediacy, tension and power.

Made in extraordinarily straitened circumstances, immediately after the liberation of Rome, the film follows Manfredi (Marcello Pagliero), a partisan leader, as he attempts to evade the Gestapo by enlisting the help of Pina (Anna Magnani) and Don Pietro (Aldo Fabrizi), the priest due to oversee Pina's marriage.

Shot both on the ravaged streets of the city and in the studio, Rome, Open City has inspired and influenced countless filmmakers.

MADE IN ENGLAND: THE FILMS OF POWELL AND PRESSBURGER 12A

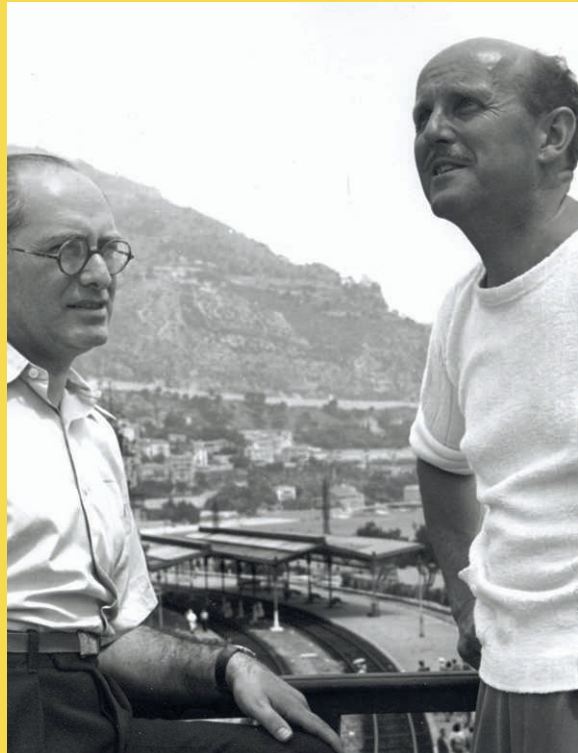

Sunday 9 June 7.30pm

Thursday 13 June 2pm

In this documentary, Martin Scorsese tells the story of his lifelong love-affair with the films of Michael Powell and Emeric Pressburger, including The Life and Death Of Colonel Blimp, The Red Shoes and The Tales of Hoffmann.

Drawing on a rich array of archive material, Scorsese explores the collaboration between the Englishman Powell and the Hungarian Pressburger - two romantics and idealists, who thrived in the face of adversity during World War II but were eventually brought low by the film industry of the 1950's.

Scorsese celebrates their "subversive commercial movies" and describes how their films have influenced his own work.

Summer of 1984 – Margaret Thatcher is in power and the National Union of Mineworkers is on strike. At the Gay Pride March in London, a group of activists decides to raise money to support the families of the striking miners. But the Union seems embarrassed to receive their support.
